

Sales engineer (m/f)

at our location in Münsterland (Ostbevern) / Berlin

Your tasks include focusing on acquiring new customers and providing existing customers in north and west Germany with customer care and services. You acquire new customers who operate in particular in the automotive sector and maintain existing contacts with our current contacts. An essential aspect of your tasks will be to present our company, our product portfolio and our engineering services. You advise our customers on utilizing our products and accompany them throughout the course of the project beginning with the acquisition. You are the interface between our development department and our customers. Building up long-term customer relationships is your number one priority.

You have successfully completed a Master's degree in engineering sciences (e.g., in electrical engineering, automotive engineering or mechatronics) or you have gained a comparable qualification and have many years of experience in technical sales – preferably in the automotive sector. Your personal attributes include a friendly and confident manner, natural social communication and rhetorical skills. At the same time you are a tactful person who is willing to listen to our customers attentively. You will enrich our company through your ability to work in a team, your motivated approach to your work and innovative ideas.

In addition to a varied range of tasks – Customer care services for existing and new customers, together with whom you will work closely with our development and technical departments – you can look forward to a pleasant working atmosphere with a lot of space for personal freedom and options for active participation in an innovative company that is prepared, in every respect, to take an unconventional approach.

Following a period of familiarization at our parent company in Ostbevern, there is also the possibility of taking up a position at our location in Berlin.

We look forward to receiving your detailed application!

CANWAY TECHNOLOGY GMBH

Michael Raber

Graf-Zeppelin-Ring 13

48346 Ostbevern

www.canway.de • jobs@canway.de

CANWAY is a medium-sized company that specializes in products and engineering services in the field of electronics. As a competent partner we design systems to meet the requirements and wishes of our customers, who include leading players in the automotive industry and energy sector. This sees our many years of experience flow into our wide ranging portfolio of products as well as the dedicated solutions we create for our customers.

